“ I can't put into words how incredibly blessed I've been to have you for a mom.

You always put everyone else first, you taught us the value of hard work and deep love.

You enjoy making beautiful quilts, then enjoy even more just giving them away to people you care about.

You treat everyone with respect, from the company managers to the custodians.

You study family genealogy and world history, and taught us to learn from our past but embrace our future.

You kick butt at trivial pursuit and Jeopardy.

You instilled in me a love of travel, and a deep desire to discover new places, as well as the heartfelt comfort of returning home.

You passed your love of the ocean to me through shared trips to the beach, with cups of coffee sipped on our balcony.

You love your kids equally, while recognizing our differences.

You always give more than you receive back.

You're strong, independent and resourceful. Which encourage your kids to strive to be the same.

You are loved and appreciated so very much, by so many.

I'm incredibly glad God picked you to be my mother.

I love you,
