“ I do miss Dad. I can remember some fond childhood memories when he and I did things together. I remember playing cards together with mother. He had a sense of humor that people did not see at the end of his journey. As I prepare for becoming a lay minister, it has become apparent to me through the scriptures that we know very little about life in general. We tend to take people for granted while they are here on earth, and only remember the good things after they are gone. Dad, I love you and hope you are at peace in heaven.##imported-begin##Jim Woolen##imported-end##

“ I have fond memories of Granddaddy taking my brother, Billy, and me to the farmers market in Savannah where he would buy us the sweetest sugar cane stalks. This was such a treat that we always enjoyed and a memory I now cherish.##imported-begin##Melissa Woolen Conti##imported-end##
