I also, grew close to Steve in the early 1990s at ORNL. His 'Bigger Than Life' personality made an everlasting, positive impression upon me. His passing represents the first loss of one of my close 'buds' from work.

“ Steve, This is very hard for me to write. I have so much to thank you for. We started out with a fight in 1993 at ORNL. After that, you taught me everything you had learned at the Nuclear Power plants. I can't begin to count the number of UT football games we listened to , while we worked overtime. We worked so many hours together, I always thought of you as my brother. You shared your family with me daily, prank called my wife, and always made me laugh. When I was in graduate school, you took over many of my responsibilities, so I could study and pass. Your wife and boys are beautiful, all because of you. I do not fear death, because I know you will be waiting to show me around on the other side. May the road rise to meet you, may the wind blow at you back, may the sun shine warmly on your face, may the rain fall softly on your fields, and until we meet again, may God hold you in the palm of his hand. Love, Peace, and Happiness to all of your relations.

“ Dear Stephen,
You are, and shall always remain in my heart as the little blonde boy holding my hand 45 years ago , walking down the old railroad tracks to buy penny candy at Chuckie's store.

IN LOVING MEMORY
By Virginia Villaseñor

We remember you
Even when the world forgets

We remember your smile
Even when we can't find anything to smile about

We remember your laughter
Even when nothing is funny

We remember yellow is your favorite color
Even when it hurts to see it brightly displayed

We remember your tears
Even when we tried to comfort your pain
We remember the precious sounds you made

We remember your smell
Even if we never smell it again

We remember how you felt
Even if we can't hold you

We remember you
Even when it hurts the most

One day we will see you again

*Dear Family ,
My heart is so heavy for all of you. We make this journey of grief together.
With loving sympathy and prayers,

At the same time Steve was very professional about his job. When working overtime with Steve, he could always tell a good story or make you laugh to make the time go by faster. Steve was always very helpful to anybody that needed any kind of help or advice. I also remember how much he loved his family and how much he enjoyed spending time with them. Our jobs had leaded us to a different direction about 10 years ago. Over the years I have seen Steve from time to time. We had always discussed the Good Ole Days.
