Tribute Wall

“ I only knew Virgil for a couple of years and only saw him each Sunday morning before church. We would drink coffee, talk football, latest events in our lives and whatever else that would come to mind. He was a pleasure to converse with and always quick with the hello and goodbye handshake. I am so glad that I spent time with him this past Sunday morning with him and Thomas. We are usually joined in our conversation each week with Peyton as well. Virgil was so proud of Peyton and I knew they were close. I pray for the healing of the Scoggins family for their unexpected loss, but I know that your memories of Virgil will keep you company and help lessen the pain as time moves on...Sunday mornings will not be the same without Virgil..... May he rest in Peace ..
